"Little Entente" Will Offer Mediation Between Germany And France

BULLETIN
Paris—In the name of the "little entente," Czechoslovakia is about to offer mediation between France and Germany in settlement of the reparations question according to the newspaper Pravda says the Matin Saturday. The Matin which comes from Belgrade adds that the Czechoslovakia minister to Germany has just arrived in that city in connection with the plan.

Washington—Both France and Germany are too tensely set in the carrying out of their present policies in the Ruhr to listen to any outside suggestion. So no government is attempting to persuade either side to consent to peace negotiations. This is the latest information from the department of state.

If anything is going on informally in the realm of diplomacy abroad, the American government has not heard of it. This means that no government has the temerity at present to call on France and Germany publicly or privately to cease their war of exhaustion and that the two policies of coercion and passive resistance must run their course. Misery and failure, starvation, stoppage of food supplies, government-inspired strikes, isolation of the civilian population in the Ruhr and all the other measures which the civilized world used to think brutal in war days are being permitted to pass without protest from any government. The cost of maintaining the American army of occupation—at least a quarter of a billion dollars—remains unpaid because France has a prior claim on Germany's assets, and while America has received from other Allied governments a recognition of the equity of the American bill, France is at the moment enforcing her idea of priority and taking what she can from Germany.

AFFECTING TRADE
Meanwhile the effect on American trade is causing much concern. And Senator Borah and members of the faro bloc are growing restive against the administration's hesitancy to call an economic conference. Mr. Borah is very much in earnest in his belief that the American government should protest against the invasion of the Ruhr and should formally call an economic conference where the French would be before the bar of the world opinion to present their case. Mr. Borah is one of those who believes the French have violated their own treaties and that an impartial examination in a world tribunal will prove it. But his main thought is that the American government should be actively exerting its influence either by a formal protest or by a meeting of all powers for the revision of the existing order and a return to methods rather than physical force.

The administration thinks an economic conference at this time would be futile. If the French were to recede from their present policies and yield to informal mediation, would France especially be any more disposed to accept an invitation to a world economic conference? This would be equivalent to conceding that the Ruhr problem and other phases of the reparations controversy shall be submitted for a new discussion and a new set of rules and regulations. France insists that the present rules are adequate if only they can be enforced, and she is just now engaged in proving to Germany that they can be enforced.

SENATE STORM RISING
The storm in the senate is rising. The Borah group do not relish American silence in a world crisis involving vital issues as well as American economic interests. The administration is not anxious to precipitate a controversy with the numerous factions in the senate and in the absence of any specific objective that would appear to be of any ultimate good, nothing at all is being done. It is a policy of watchful waiting. This naturally gives Senator Borah his chance. And there are others in the senate who feel that the foreign

Car Runs Off High Pike; 5 Die In Drop

Cumberland, Md. — Five persons were killed Saturday morning when an automobile crashed through an iron fence on the National pike and dropped 35 feet into Will's Creek near here. The dead are Mrs. Clara McCullough, Eva Dundee, Louise Dundee and William J. Farrell, all of Cumberland, and Edward A. Flynn of Hagerstown.

HOME BEAUTY, HEALTH RURAL WOMEN'S TOPICS

Madison—Several hundred women from Wisconsin will meet here Jan. 29 to Feb. 3 for a home makers' convention in connection with the "Farmers Way Out" program at the college of agriculture for Badger farmers.

The health of the family—how to gain it and maintain it—will be the subject of several talks. "Salads for Vitamines," special diets for children, setting up exercises for the women in the home, and how to organize health centers for the care of rural mothers and children are a few of the subjects on health.

Making the home more attractive by having appropriate pictures, and the use of good color and lines in furniture and draperies will be considered. The everblooming garden also is a feature in the home beautiful series.

How the home maker may make herself more beautiful as well as improving her home is to be explained. The choice of colors and line in dress, the selection of the right materials, and the making of the paper, dress form to insure well-fitting clothes are some of the numbers dealing with this problem.

JAP GOVERNMENT DENIES STORY OF SECRET PACT

Tokio—In an official statement Saturday the Japanese press announces that Premier Kato was misinterpreted if he was reported to have referred, in addressing the diet on Jan. 25, to the existence of an agreement informal among American, England and Japan regarding steps to be taken should France and Italy fail to ratify the naval agreement.

LA FOLLETTE IS AGAINST BURNING OF ROUND ROBIN

Madison—Senator Robert La Follette is opposed to the public burning of the "round robin" signed during the world war by the faculty of the University of Wisconsin as an attack on his war record, the Madison Capital Times, a La Follette publication says that it learned Saturday.

A bonfire to dispose of the resolution signed by 450 members of the university faculty, is provided in a resolution introduced into the Wisconsin Legislature by Senator Henry Huber, Stoughton, with the sanction of Governor Blaine.

BAVARIA UNDER MARTIAL LAW; FEAR REVOLT

Reichswehr Prepared To Prevent Meetings Of Socialists And Fascists

Munich — Bavaria was under a modified form of martial law Saturday as a means of preventing week end meetings of the National Socialists and the Fascists.

Premier Von Knilling's request that the leaders of these groups cancel their plans for a series of outdoor gatherings met with refusal by Herr Hitler head of the Fascists whereupon "an exceptional state" was proclaimed. The police and the Reichswehr assured the premier they would keep with the government.

RUHR CHIEFS MEET
Dusseldorf—A further strengthening of German resistance was generally anticipated by the French Saturday as an aftermath of Friday's meeting of the Ruhr police chiefs, burgomasters and state officials at which time it was said, measures for carrying the occupation were discussed. One immediate result of the conference was the arrest of its chairman, Dr. Gruetner, president of the province of Rhenish Prussia. Dr. Gruetner was later released after General Simon had warned him he would again be taken into custody if he remained obdurate.

The French are understood to be ready for any development, and with additional troops on the scene have this city practically under martial law. Public places, such as hotels, cafes, cabarets, and theaters, were closed Friday evening at 10 o'clock by the occupationists, while soldiers walked the beats of the German police.

MAY CALL RESERVES
Reports that the French contemplate summoning several military chases suggest the extent to which the Paris government is preparing to go in forcing the Germans into line.

It is thought likely the next important move will not come until after Jan. 13, the time limit for the 500,000,000 gold mark reparations payment.

Industry and commerce are being seriously affected by the rail strike and the French are ready to try their hands at operating the lines with the assistance of 3,000 rail workers expected in the Ruhr Saturday.

NAB ALLEGED CHIEF OF BANK ROBBERS

Policeman Is Shot As Man Is Surprised In Garage While Taking His Car

By Associated Press
Davenport, Ia.—Officer James Carroll of the Davenport police department was shot three times and seriously wounded by Eugene Saunders, a charge of bank robbery, during a gun fight Friday night. Saunders was under arrest. The local police several days ago received word that Saunders was in Davenport and Friday evening succeeded in locating the garage where he kept his car. Carroll and several other officers went to the garage about 11 o'clock to wait for Saunders and place him under arrest.

A short time later when Saunders drove up, Carroll stepped forward and attempted to place him under arrest. It is claimed that Saunders immediately opened fire. Saunders was overpowered.

Minneapolis—Eugene S. Saunders, who was arrested at Davenport, Iowa, was wanted by Minneapolis police as the leader of a band of five alleged bank robbers, authorities announced here Saturday. The gang is said to be wanted for numerous country bank robberies in Minnesota.

WATCH ON RHINE ENDS OFFICIALLY

Governor Allen Turns Over Area To French In Simple Ceremony

By Associated Press
Coblenz—The Coblenz area of occupied Germany, held by American troops since the establishment of the Allied watch on the Rhine, was turned over to the French at noon Saturday.

Major General Henry T. Allen, commander in Chief of the American forces in Germany, and General Marty of the French army, were the two military officers involved in the transfer.

This final ceremony, ending the four years of American occupation was of the simplest character. General Marty, accompanied by a single French officer, came to General Allen's headquarters, where the American commander and his full staff received them.

Promptly at noon General Allen turned over the area so long under the control of his forces to the French commander.

The formal transfer of authority took but a few moments. It was accompanied with brief expressions of regret at the departure of the Americans.

LOAD OF LUMBER TIPS ON DRIVER; MAN DIES

Ashland — Rudolph Amunson, 24, was instantly killed Friday afternoon between Grandview and Mason on highway No. 24, when a load of lumber he was taking to Mason tipped over, and he was pinned underneath. Another teamer was back of Amunson's team and the lumber was removed at once but Amunson was dead.

BARGAIN WEEK STARTS TODAY

The Community Bargain week started today and the busy stores and enthusiastic buying which marked the opening day, indicates a busy night for Appleton's retail stores. The buying should be spirited and heavy every day for the entire week—for the 36 stores cooperating in this big economy event have gone the extreme limit to offer bargains that are bargains and the biggest values that have ever been offered in Appleton. Hundreds of out-of-town families visited in the stores during the day having planned days ago to be in Appleton tonight and early Saturday morning, Jan. 27.

LEGISLATURE FACING LONG SESSION AGAIN

Little Accomplished In Three Weeks—Sharp Floor Battles Anticipated

Madison—Three weeks of the Wisconsin legislative session have gone by without action on a single bill, and without so much as committee consideration of the bills already introduced. This situation is a repetition of experience in former years indicating another extended session.

But while the legislative machinery was moving slowly along, a number of fights were developing behind the scenes, to break out when brought to the floor for consideration. The number of these prospective battles is increasing as the introduction of bills continues.

FACING SEVERE FIGHTS
Taxation, Senator LaFollette's war record, unemployment insurance, the Ku Klux Klan, abolition of the state militia, the initiative and referendum, a prospective constitutional convention and liquor legislation, all are to be objects of severe floor battles.

The past week brought marked developments in the tax situation, which Governor Blaine clarified somewhat Friday by announcing that the legislature would have to fight out its own revenue problems. Two factions within the governor's forces are bringing in distinct bills this coming week, one calling for a general income tax with increased rates, the other proposing an income surtax law. Both are expected to have hard sledding in the state senate, where factional lines are close.

OPPOSE BON FIRE

Interesting developments are taking place over the Huber resolution providing for a bonfire to dispose of the "round robin" signed by University of Wisconsin professors during the war attacking Senator La Follette record. Senator Huber is demanding action on the proposal, while men within his group are known to be advising caution in pushing the matter. They would eliminate the bonfire, or in some cases allow the record to stand as at present.

Senator Huber is proposing another measure of far-reaching importance in his unemployment insurance bill, introduced this week. The proposition is strongly backed and is certain to be one of the important bills of the session. This third measure of outstanding importance is the initiative and referendum requiring a constitutional amendment. The administration is backing the bill and it is expected to be adopted.

BRITAIN FINDS PEOPLE NOT OFFICIALS RULE U.S.

BULLETIN
Washington—It was revealed Saturday that the American debt funding commission in its recent negotiations with the British delegation on a funding arrangement for Great Britain's debt to the United States had suggested an interest rate of 3 per cent for the first ten years and 3 1/2 per cent thereafter with provision for extinguishing the entire debt in sixty-two years.

Southampton — Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer returning on the Olympic Saturday from his debt mission to Washington, told newspapermen that settlement of the debt question in the United States was in the hands of Congress as the representatives of the peace and that this situation constituted the great difference between America and England.

Explaining that in America "you have an executive who is willing to do a great deal for you but cannot because of difficulties encountered in congress," Mr. Baldwin said:

"In the early days the secretary for the treasury could undoubtedly have arranged terms with the British government, but the situation now is complicated because the matter is in the hands of the American congress. You are not settling in America with the cabinet at one end or with businessmen at the other. You are settling with congress and the senate, which represent the people of America from one end of the country to the other. In England, if any terms are agreed on regarding the debt the government takes the responsibility.

"On the other hand what the executives in America have to do is to endeavor to force anything of this sort through congress and in doing so they may be beaten."

Woman Dies In Struggle With Bandits

By Associated Press
Tabor, S. D. — Mrs. John Mudloff was shot to death and one unidentified robber was wounded and another escaped when two men attempted to hold up the Mudloff home here Friday night. Mrs. Mudloff was shot by one of the robbers when she resisted their demand for money after they had knocked at the door late at night. After the shooting one of the robbers fled from the house with Mr. Mudloff in pursuit while the other sought refuge in the attic of the house.

A crowd gathered in front of the Mudloff residence and in an exchange of shots, the robber in the attic was wounded and subsequently taken prisoner. Officers are combing the countryside in search of the second robber.

CHARGES HUBBY SAT ON STOVE TO BE NEAR COOK

Peoria, Ill.—The $35,000 suit of Mrs. Myrtle Smith against Susan Parks, a servant girl, who was alleged to have stolen the kisses of her employer's husband, was dismissed from Circuit court here Friday on motion of counsel for the defense that no evidence sufficient to justify judgment had been introduced.

The motion followed testimony by the plaintiff, who claimed she saw her husband and the girl in a kiss which lasted for the greater part of five minutes.

Mrs. Smith also testified that her husband targeted after the girl while the girl was preparing meals and that he sat on a corner of the gas stove so he could whisper his love to her.

UNION CHIEF URGES PROBE IN ARKANSAS

Men Pledged Guilty To Save Lives Says Brotherhood President

By Associated Press
Cleveland — Charges that a "mob special," carrying armed men was run over the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad for the purpose of inflicting punishment upon striking employees of the railway were made in a statement made public Saturday by D. E. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

Mr. Robertson has communicated with the Governor of Arkansas asking a thorough investigation of the recent trouble at Harrison and Heber Springs involving the lynching of a striker by unidentified men and the expulsion of a number of other strikers by a citizen's committee. He promised the governor his organization would cooperate with the state in bringing to justice all guilty parties regardless of who they may be.

VOTE $10,000 FOR RELIEF
The brotherhood directors have voted to set aside $10,000 for the relief of striking firemen on the M. & N. line and $500 also was voted to the widow of D. C. Gregor, the union machinist who was hanged at Harrison, Ark.

"No definite statement has yet been made as to the position of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers concerning the recent outrage committed in the state of Arkansas, when an armed mob was carried on a special train over the M. & N. railroad for the purpose of inflicting punishment upon employees and strikers, who about two years ago left the service of the road and engaged in a legal strike in protest against an arbitrary and excessive reduction in their wages made effective by the management in violation of transportation act," the statement said. "The fact that our members and their families have been driven from their homes, without food or shelter, and for several days without means of communication with the outside world has made it impossible to issue any authentic statement with regard to the matter until the present time."

"BLOT ON STATE"
"Reports from individual members are now filtering into headquarters from various points and the information contained therein indicates that the treatment accorded the striking members of the railroad organizations and members of their families has been such as to place a stain upon the good name of the state of Arkansas and to call for the most rigid investigation in the present state in order that the true facts may be disclosed not only for the benefit of the public and in the interest of justice, but to the end that the principles for which the railroad transportation brotherhoods stand shall be vindicated."

"FORCED TO PLEAD GUILTY"
"Two of the strikers had been sentenced to the penitentiary after having pleaded guilty before the citizens court," Mr. Robertson said, adding: "Our records show that these men were advised by authorities that to plead guilty would be an insurance that their lives would be spared."

He declared other strikers under threat of their lives were forced to sign incriminating statements.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, he declared is determined "to carry this matter to a final conclusion."

Los Angeles—One man was killed and two seriously injured aboard the U. S. S. California, flagship of the battle fleet, when a hollow casting exploded in the ship's blacksmith shop.

HE WAS WELL PREPARED

Friday I saw a farmer who was prepared for anything in the way of roads. He drove into town with a sleigh but a buggy was fastened to the sleigh. When he reached the corner of College and Richmond, he removed the buggy from the sleigh unhitched his horses, hitched the horses to the buggy and rode away. That was about 11 o'clock in the morning and about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, he came back, reversed the process and started for home.

HOSE GOT PRETTY FRISKY

Friday afternoon as the Lawrence campus skating rink was being flooded, one of the workmen tried to change the position of the hose which was lying on the ice, while the water was running. In doing so he bent the hose a bit too sharply and the force of the water within it straightened it out jacking it from his hands and throwing it over his head. It then fell to the ice and started to sway rapidly back and forth on the springy surface, causing him to jump over it several times to avoid being knocked from his feet and then to run to the edge of the rink for safety.

OPENED HIS MOUTH TOO FAR

I was playing at a country dance at which an old fashioned program was being danced. The caller was an elderly man. As he was about to call off one of the dances he opened his mouth too far and his teeth fell out. He caught them before they fell to the floor and since the dancers were interested only in themselves, he thought that no one had seen him.

HE TOOK A BITE OF APPLE

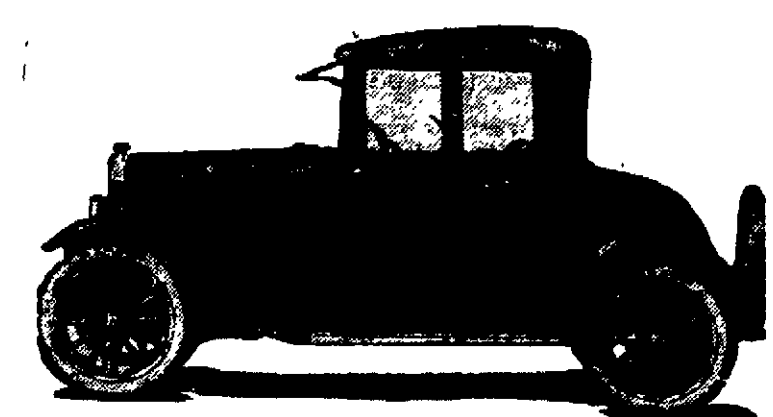

A small boy slipped something over on his mother in a fruit store. I saw the woman and the boy come in and when his mother's back was turned the boy took an apple. When his mother saw it, she insisted that he put it right back. The youngster started to put it back but took a bite out of it first. Then his mother had to pay for it.

Lowly Potato Is Coming Into Its Own As Delicacy

"Hokey! Hokey!" shouts the Contest Editor. "The women are sending me potato recipes as I know they would after they once got started." The Contest Editor is delighted with the response from the women and is keeping right on with his plea, SEND THEM IN. The lowly common potato has taken on a new significance in Appleton since the women and the Contest Editor have been giving it considerable thought and attention. An Appleton woman suggested that something ought to be done about the surplus of potatoes, which makes the food so cheap now, and so the Contest Editor who is always doing just those things which ought to be done, started in to clamor for potato recipes. Sign your name to the recipes which you send in, but you may be sure that your identity will not be disclosed and only your initials will be used on the recipes. If you read these with interest, send your recipes for some other woman. The Contest Editor said the other day that any woman who used one of the recipes printed in the Post-Crescent owed him another one. He means it. SEND THEM IN. Green potato salad: Cut 3 or 4 slices of bacon into small bits and fry. Mix 1 tablespoon of flour, 1 tablespoon of sugar, a little salt, add vinegar and boil. Then add a little

France Wants Germany To Pay But Expects U.S. To Cancel War Account

Invasion Not So Unjust, Babson Says, But France Uses Wrong Methods—England Here Asking Mercy Is Spectacle

Wellesley Hills, Mass.—Since the arrival of the British debt commission in the United States, Roger W. Babson has been making a study of the situation from a statistical point of view. His detailed conclusions are dry and uninteresting. The summary which he makes, however, is most enlightening.

"First, let us realize," says Mr. Babson, "that the coming to this country of Stanley Baldwin, British Chancellor of the exchequer, Montagu C. Norman, governor of Bank of England, and their associates from the greatest empire in the world, with hats in hand and begging for mercy, is one of the greatest events in our financial history. For centuries Great Britain has been the world's greatest creditor and all nations, including our own, have owed the British Empire billions of dollars.

WORLD UPSET

"The war turned the financial world upside down. Certain great nations like Germany emerged bankrupt; France, the world's greatest investment nation emerged debtor; while England, to whom everyone came for advice, now comes to Washington for help. Truly this is the most dramatic economic and financial event in the history of our nation. It also emphasizes the fact that we have a great financial responsibility as well as a great opportunity. Therefore, it is with this thought in mind that we must make our decisions.

"This whole question of reparation," continued Mr. Babson, "is bound up with sympathies, politics, and great national feeling. Owing to the latter, without doubt, a great many people in our country sympathize with Germany, and many others, through their love for Ireland, hate England. Frank study of the situation, however, should convince any disinterested party that Germany is in the position of a burglar who attempted a colossal steal but was caught and defeated in his plans.

SHOULD MAKE AMENDS

Respective of the question of punishing this burglar, all must admit that he should make amends for the goods which he partly got away with and destroyed. France, therefore, should not be criticized for asking that Germany restore, as far as possible, the property which was destroyed and damaged in her attempt to burglarize. Every disinterested party must admit that this is reasonable. France is asking of Germany only what any one of us would ask of a neighbor who attempted the same thing in our community.

"The reason that France has recently lost sympathy in her negotiations with Germany is due to the fact that she is going at her problem in the wrong way. France's difficulty is that she is insistent. She wants a certain economic lay to apply to her wants but wants to suspend it in the case of Germany. Perhaps this is more or less true of all the allies, especially when they say that they cannot afford to pay their indebtedness to the United States. Yet when one looks at the statistics he finds that England, France, Italy, and all the allies combined owe the United States only about ten billion dollars, while they are demanding of Germany alone reparations of over thirty billion dollars! Of course, if Germany can pay any such amounts as France demands, there is absolutely no doubt that England, France, and the rest of them can very easily pay a smaller amount to the United States. President Harding and his cabinet, and all others who have looked into the matter evidently appreciate this situation.

USELESS TO CANCEL

As to what we will eventually do with these foreign debts cannot be predicted at the present time. Certainly it would be useless to cancel them today and have these European nations go on another great spree or spend our money playing military poker. If, however, these nations would repent of their sins, disband their armies, and live honestly and decently, I believe the United States would be glad to cancel the indebtedness or do anything else which would truly help. On the surface, the difficulty with Europe is financial; but

MAY NOT CONTINUE SCHOOL MAGAZINE

The second number of The Excelsior, the vocational school publication, has made its appearance and is filled with news concerning the school and those connected with it. It is published by the printing department and is a credit to the school, but there is a question of its being continued according to an editorial which reads:

"In almost every school some effort is made to compile the events of interest into the shape of a paper or record. It is only natural for people to desire a remembrance of days gone by and of friends with whom they associated."

"There are incidents in the life of everyone that he wishes to remember; there are friends that one does not want to forget. There is no better means of recording some of these things than the school paper. If it is given adequate support."

"The subscription campaign carried on in the assembly was a showing of poor interest taken in a project that should be important to us. Without support we cannot keep up our paper. Are you willing to have it fail, or shall it be continued?"

Cat in Ditch

A cat occupied by four Menasha people and headed for Menasha went into the ditch at Gheiner corner about midnight Thursday night. No one was injured, but the car was badly damaged. Practically all the glass was broken. Roman Probst of Appleton rendered timely assistance by pulling the car out of the ditch.

WHY NOT THE UNITED STATES?

No one can say whether the moral and economic resistance of Germany to French occupation of the Ruhr will be successful. On paper the French are in the stronger position. Back of the armed force sent into Germany there is a military establishment of nearly 1,000,000 men. While France is in sore straits financially, she is in vastly better shape in this respect than her opponent. Her leaders have a united nation back of them, and labor troubles and revolutionary movements are less likely to manifest themselves in France than in any other nation of continental Europe. The situation in Germany is filled with the gravest possibilities. The government is bankrupt and exists by sufferance. Resistance to France may strengthen the national spirit for a time, but it is not likely to hold out long against suffering, privation and hunger. Nevertheless, it is easily conceivable that the elements which may work the undoing of Germany might make futile the French undertaking and react disastrously upon both nations.

In Great Britain the situation is regarded as so critical that the government, having originally warned France of the dangers of invasion, maintains a policy of resolute silence. A leading London newspaper has seen fit not to publish an admonition to France written by Mr. Lloyd George. While Great Britain is opposed, to the French expedition, it refrains from any act of official speech which might be construed as giving support to Germany.

In the United States there has been frank and full discussion of the Ruhr incident, and while sympathy in this country is with France in principle, there is a general conviction that France has made a mistake. This sentiment is not unfriendly to Germany, neither is it friendly in the sense that it excuses German failure to at least substantially meet the reparations obligations. The feeling here is that both nations need assistance, and that this assistance may properly take two forms. One is moral helplessness, possibly in the way of mediation, and the other is eventual cooperation economically. In both forms it is probable that Great Britain may participate, in fact may take the initiative. Neither country wishes to see the Ruhr occupation become a test of endurance.

The chaotic condition of Europe as a whole and the smoldering fires of war and civil strife combine to make the French enterprise a very great peril to peace. This alone makes it imperative that some way be found to bring about an adjustment of the controversy and an amicable and workable understanding. It would be nothing short of a crime for nations which nationally are secure to sit idly by and permit the Ruhr crisis to light the fires of another European conflagration. Preeminently among those nations in a position to perform this service and to offer acceptable mediation stands the United States.

RELIGION AND EVOLUTION

The evolution debate is growing warm again. Supporters of Moses and Darwin, or those who regard themselves as such, are cudgeling each other as hard as ever in support of their rival theories of creation. It is an odd revival of the great controversy awaked half a century ago by Darwin's "Origin of Species" and Descartes of Man."

The extreme views are represented by Prof. Richard Swann Lull of Yale, in a lecture on the "Antiquity of Man," and Dr. John Lightfoot of Cambridge university, England, who worked out the long-accepted Bible chronology in 1654. According to Prof. Lull, "All of our evidence points to the Miocene epoch 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 years ago, as the time of man's origin." According to a statement attributed to Dr. Lightfoot, "Heaven and earth, center and circumference, were made in the same instant of time, and man was created by the Trinity on the 26th of October, 4004 B. C. at 9 o'clock in the morning."

Many people who have grown familiar with the idea of a gradual and prolonged creation, according to an orderly process of "natural law," and less inclined to literal interpretation of the scriptures, do not see any necessary conflict between the scientific and biblical explanations. Here is a reconciling view expressed the other day by a professor of biology in an American college, who neatly combines his science and religion:

"God seems more real, the more we see him at work in the development of the world and its life. Evolution deepens one's belief in God's spiritual nature, for it can be only a spiritual power that is carrying on the great process. God seems more truly ever-present, for evolution means he is ever at work everywhere in the universe."

"It is easier to trust in God, I believe, from the point of view of evolution, because it teaches that God is dependable and systematic."

"Evolution or science does not show that God is simply the operation of natural laws, and that natural laws explain God. Natural laws do not explain anything. They are only summaries of our observation, concise statements of facts which we do not understand."

"Natural laws can properly be called God's habits. He ordains and uses them for his own ends."

TO REFORM LEGAL PRACTICE

A serious attempt to restate the law and standardize legal practice is being made by a group of lawyers, who organized the American Institute of Law at a meeting in the Harvard club in New York city. Hundreds of judges, lawyers and teachers, collectively representing every state, every bar organization, every recognized law school and every court in the United States will, as a result, assemble in Washington, February 23, to produce "a restatement of the law which will have an authority much greater than that now accorded to any legal work."

The committee which is behind this far-reaching movement truly says that injustices due to conditions in the courts are causes of popular dissatisfaction and suspicion and that collapse of confidence in our tribunals is one of the main causes of revolutionary tendency. The committee also truly says that the law and its workings give undue advantages, equivalent to unfairness, and there is much substantial reason for popular distrust.

This is one of the greatest reform movements launched in many years. It should have the patriotic support of all who are connected with the law and the courts, and it should be backed up by the most vigorous public opinion. Our law does not work well. Nor do our courts. As a consequence, the people are losing faith in the bulwark of representative government. This fact indicates the importance of the projected reform.

WEEKS HANDS IT BACK TO CONGRESS

Secretary of War Weeks fearlessly denounces the house of representatives for taking away from Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord his retired pay as deputy chief of staff by amending the army bill. Gen. Harbord, it will be remembered, was elected president of the Radio Corporation of America. "The reason given for this action," the secretary says, "is that Gen. Harbord has been employed by the company for the purpose of obtaining more business from the government than the company could hope otherwise to secure. This is an insult to Gen. Harbord and the government itself."

Secretary Weeks is right. The specious reason given is tantamount to charging that the officers of the war department are dishonest, that the government is dishonest and incapable of protecting itself, that the federal business is conducted by a graft system. It is, as he alleges, an insult which is not even based on suspicion.

Gen. Harbord is entitled to his retired pay by custom. He committed no wrong by accepting a position.

Health Talks

Noted Physician and Author
Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. "Writers' names are never printed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

PULLING ON "COLDS"

One of those nagging high school teachers who spends a considerable share of the pupils' study period listening to herself talk, and who is one of the most ardent upholders of the "homework" idea which is so popular among poorly trained teachers and in the more backward schools, scolds the class because some pupils remain out of school for trivial reasons such as "colds." On the other hand, wherever any adequate health supervision or medical inspection is maintained in schools, pupils are sent home from school if they venture to come to school with "simple colds"—on the ground that such apparently trivial illness or indisposition may prove exceedingly infectious and amount to severe or even fatal illness in the pupils who would be exposed.

The health authorities are pretty well agreed that all so-called "colds" are communicable, infectious diseases. There are people who claim the right to run around peddling typhoid fever and diphtheria or small pox to any susceptible victims who happen to cross their path. And there are people who consider it quite the proper thing for persons with respiratory infections to spread the infections among all who associate with or encounter them.

A child with what purports to be "just a simple cold" has quite as much right to go to school as he would have if his alleged "cold" had already proved to be diphtheria, meningitis, measles or influenza.

In a reply to a physician's query about the prevention and treatment of coryza (called "common cold") the editor of the greatest medical journal in the world said just the other day: "One should dress so as to be warm. This does not imply wearing such heavy flannel underclothing as to keep the body damp with sweat when indoors. One should avoid wet feet, and not sit in drafts, especially when the child, or adult, gets fresh air at night and is outdoors in the daytime as much as possible, even in cold and perhaps unpleasant weather."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Childish Notion of X-ray

Do X-ray pictures or X-ray examination by a specialist show diseased conditions of all organs?—A. M. K.

Answer—No. X-ray pictures often show what even a skilled technician might easily mistake for evidence of disease when in fact the organ under examination is perfectly sound. X-ray pictures or X-ray examinations are only to be taken as corroboration of the physician's opinion. Plenty of time to let 'em turn the wonderful X-ray on you when your doctor advises such examination. The X-ray, even in competent technical hands, sometimes shows evidence of a fracture, say, when there is no fracture or fails to show a foreign body when there is a foreign body present. So you see X-ray evidence alone cannot be considered conclusive. I have received at least enough X-ray film to paper the bog kennel from misguided folk who have had their teeth X-rayed, at no trifling expense, and then floundered around trying to find somebody to interpret the pictures for them. Nobody can, unless it be the individual's own dentist and doctor.

Noisebleed
Please inform me if one should have noisebleed occasionally. I had it quite frequently when a child, but have not since I have grown to be a woman. My husband has noisebleed two or three times a week.—Mrs. H.

Answer—No.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

Week's Events Briefly Told

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Post-Crescent Expert

AS might have been expected, the Franco-German trouble is getting around to a point now where European diplomats are beginning to hint that the whole thing could be fixed up if the United States would cancel a lot of the war debts due to her from the Old World powers.

At any rate, dispatches from across the Atlantic are saying "reparation experts" are working on a plan to settle the entire question—on the supposition that America forgives England half of what the latter owes to her—that is, that she wipes out a couple of billion dollars in obligations.

This kind of talk starts so naturally as almost to hint that the Ruhr invasion may have been staged to some extent with a view to scaring the United States into making financial concessions, as the only means of averting another world conflict.

But will the United States fall for such a program?

It doesn't seem very likely. Americans have been pretty balky hitherto whenever it has been suggested that it would be a good idea for them to give up any or all of their war claims.

By a curious coincidence there was a British mission, headed by Chancellor of the Exchequer Stanley Baldwin, in Washington, discussing the question of war debts, just when the Ruhr invasion occurred.

This mission has gone home now. The negotiations are said not to have broken down. On the contrary, it's understood the British commissioners, having found out how Americans feel about the indebtedness matter, returned to London to talk it over with their own government.

If, by any possibility, the French really did think their Ruhr venture would prompt the United States to make financial sacrifices and the United States doesn't do it, the indications are that France has undertaken a pretty serious contract.

For in that case France positively must get her money out of the Germans by her present method, or the Germans will fairly well have proved that they aren't able to pay it, and then France never will get anything. So they've got to go ahead. The French government hasn't said it will go as far as Berlin if necessary, but individual Frenchmen in high government posts have said so.

The French occupation of German territory now covers the entire region which the Versailles treaty permits them to enter and there were some signs that already they might have gone farther than that but for English and American and perhaps Italian disapproval.

They have "requisitioned," as they call it, considerable coal already dug, but stored clear of the word "confiscation," having been warned, it is said, that it would create a bad impression in the United States and Great Britain.

They have made some arrests of German industrial leaders and held them as "political prisoners."

The German owners, refusing to proceed with production, the French began taking possession of mines, but this started a strike. It remains to be seen how the invaders will deal with this difficulty. They show a disposition to treat the workers gently. The German government continues to protest.

It's protested again to the United States, but still with no prospect of getting even an answer.

It's said to have a "confidential mission" in England, trying to secure intervention. The English government is keeping as quiet as the American but, Hugo Stinnes is reported to have obtained a $10,000,000 credit in London to buy coal, now that his Ruhr supply's cut off, to keep his factories going. If this is true, while it isn't the same thing as English government action, it's a pretty strong card for the Germans.

Italy's said to be working on a Franco-German compromise plan. She certainly is very unenthusiastic over what France has done.

The masses of Germans are not raising much commotion, considering how much trouble they're in.

There have been a few small clashes with the French and two or three killings, but nothing to compare with what often happens in connection, for instance, with a big strike in this or any other country.

But there's some talk of a Bavarian secession from Germany and 200,000 Bavarian National Socialists are reported under arms. These socialists, by the way, as their name doesn't imply, are conservatives, not to say reactionaries, maybe even royalists.

Also there are hints at the formation of a Rhineland republic, or several republics. The French are reported encouraging it, liking the idea of some small "buffer states" between France and Germany.

The wresting of Memel, on the Lithuanian frontier, from the small French force which was holding it, doesn't seem to have much to do with the Ruhr situation. It's pretty clear that this was the work of Lithuanian filibusters. Germans may have helped, but that doesn't matter so much. What does matter is whether the Russians were behind it.

News dispatches have it that France and Italy are exerting pressure on England to prevent the English from driving the Turks to extremes in their argument at Lausanne over the Near Eastern question.

The chances are that "not much pressure is needed. This would be a mighty poor time to get the Turks started and undoubtedly England thinks so.

The Turks will go to war very easily. If they do, they'll ask help from Russia and probably they'll get it.

Everybody's afraid of Russia. There's trouble along the frontiers between the Bulgarians and the Yugoslavs, between the Bulgarians and the Rumanians, and between the Rumanians and the Yugoslavs and the Hungarians.

But it isn't a circumstance to what would happen if the English and the Turks should get to fighting, and Greece and Rumania should attack Turkey, and Bulgaria, attacked Rumania, and Yugoslavia attacked Rumania, and Hungary attacked Rumania and Yugoslavia, and Russia attacked England and Rumania and Poland—and then maybe Germany decided to try conclusions against France again.

The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Q. Is it a crime to draw a postoffice money order under an assumed name? E. T. P.

A. The Post Office Department says that there is no law prohibiting the use of an assumed name in making out money orders so long as it is not done for a fraudulent or unlawful purpose. Trouble might be caused if the payee of a money order had assumed a name and could not prove identity when trying to cash the order.

Q. Has the number of guns, twenty-one, comprising the military salute, any significance? H. L. C.

A. The origin of the custom of firing 21 guns for the international salute has been traced as follows: originally warships fired a salute of 7 guns, the number 7 being selected because of its mystical significance from antiquity. Although the salute at sea was 7 guns, shore batteries were allowed to fire 3 guns to the ship's one. The reason for this was that sodium nitrate was largely used in the manufacture of powder. This was easily spoiled at sea, but could be readily kept on land. The multiplier 3 was selected, probably because of its symbolism. With the development of the manufacture of powder, the number of guns for the international naval salute was made to correspond with that of the land forces. On August 18, 1875, a resolution adopted by the United States provided that salutes be returned gun for gun. At this time the British salute was already 21 guns, therefore this number was accepted by the United States.

Q. What were the names of Mary Ball Washington's sisters? L. R. G.

A. Mary Ball had no sisters. She had four half sisters, Elizabeth married the Rev. John Carnegie, Hannah, Mr. Tynes, Anne, Col. Edwin Conway, Easter, Mr. Raleigh Chinn.

Q. Will the Church of St. Anne de Beaurieu be rebuilt? J. L.

A. It is said that the reconstruction of the St. Anne de Beaurieu Basilica will start next summer. The cost of the new temple is not to exceed $1,500,000 and should be completed for the spring of 1924. The ruins of the old church have now been removed.

Q. Is burglary a crime that can be committed only at night? T. C.

A. A common law burglary is the breaking and entering of the house of another in the nighttime, with intent to commit a felony therein. In New York and in some other states in which the New York statute has been adopted burglary in the first degree must be committed at night, but burglary in the second and third degrees may be committed in the day time.

Q. What part of the country has the greatest acreage in cranberries? C. T.

A. The cranberry bogs in Massachusetts are the largest cultivated ones in the world.

Q. I would like to know something about where the Christian Endeavor organization was started? J. M. C.

A. The Society of Christian Endeavor was organized by the Rev. Francis E. Clark, pastor of the Williston Congregational Church in Portland, Maine, on Feb. 2, 1881. Fifty boys and girls met in the pastor's study and pledged themselves to attend and take part in the weekly prayer meetings and to hold a monthly meeting of consecration to divine service. The membership now is estimated at over 5,000,000 and there are Christian Endeavor societies practically all over the world.

Q. Who invented soda water? A. P.

A. The first use of fruit syrup with aerated water is credited to Eugene Roussel, the owner of a perfumery shop in Philadelphia, early in the nineteenth century. Ice cream soda was a later development, being attributed to Robert M. Green.

Q. What is the significance of the picture on the centennial stamp of Brazil? J. W.

A. It depicts the proclamation of independence in 1822, which was signed at Ypiranga.

A. Eight times in the past twelve years, the Supreme Court has held statutes unconstitutional.

Q. Who received the first patent in this country? H. I. K.

A. Samuel Hopkins, of Vermont, on July 31, 1790, was granted the first patent issued by the United States. It was for a process of making pot and pearl ashes. The document bore the signatures of George Washington, as President, Thomas Jefferson, Secretary of State, and Edmund Randolph, Attorney General.

A. Eleanor Wilson, the youngest daughter of former President Woodrow Wilson, was married on May 7th, 1914, to William Gibbs McAdoo. Miss Lewis Wilson was married on November 25th, 1913, to Francis B. Sayre. The third daughter, Miss Margaret, is unmarried.

Ticket Sale For Concert Opens Today

Capacity Crowd Is Indicated For Program By Symphony Orchestra

The seat sale for the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra concert in Lawrence Memorial chapel Feb. 7 opened Saturday morning with a rush, indicating a capacity house for the premier musical event of the season. Music lovers all over the Fox River valley have indicated a desire to hear this great orchestra which is visiting only three cities in Wisconsin and whose itinerary includes only the larger cities, where music is appreciated, in the middle west.

A matinee for children will be given on the afternoon of Feb. 7. A special children's program will be offered. Children from Neenah, Menasha, Kimberly, Little Chute, Kaukauna and Appleton are expected to attend and it is probable special street car arrangements will be made to take care of the youngsters. The afternoon program will begin at 3:30.

The great orchestra moves over its route with the precision of a trans-continental train. A special train is chartered to carry the 85 musicians, with the extra representatives and officials and the truckloads of equipment. The train will come here from Madison and goes to Milwaukee. The musicians live on the train when on tour.

The orchestra is made up of soloists of national and international repute, recruited from all the music loving countries of the world. These great musicians, playing in ensemble numbers and in solo parts, provide a program that is almost impossible to improve.

None of the soloists has earned more praise than Engelbert Roentgen, cellist, a Hollander by birth. Mr. Roentgen has appeared in concert in all the large cities of Europe where he has won great fame. He came to America in 1915 and a year or so later he enlisted in the American army and took part in several major conflicts. After the war he resumed his playing and only recently returned from a tour of Europe where he again was acclaimed an artist of distinction. Roentgen is only one of the many artists who will be seen here with the orchestra.

Hope Stars In Play As Cappy Ricks

Douglas Hope, well known Broadway star, will take the part of Cappy Ricks in the comedy by that name at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Tuesday evening. This is the sixth number of the Community Lecture and Artist series, and is the first dramatic number of the year. It is really the most pretentious dramatic number ever included in the series.

Those who have been regretting that more good comedies do not come to Appleton will have this opportunity of seeing one of the most famous in years. Other actors who will take part are Charles Fleming as John Skinner, Leo Chalzel as Matt Peasley, Robert Bentley as Cecil Bernard, Margaret Leonard as Florence Ricks and Marie Pavey as Aunt Lucy Bartlett.

Many good seats for this number are available. Those who learned to know Peter B. Kyne's character "Cappy Ricks" through stories about him in the Saturday Evening Post are anxious to see the comedy. The play is written about an old sea captain whose possessions include a winsome daughter and a fleet of trading schooners. Matt Peasley, the handsome young first mate comes into conflict with the old captain over both his possessions and the resulting plots and counter plots are most amusing.

"Moral and Social Problems of the 1923 Girl and Boy" will be the subject discussed at the assembly period of the community training school at 7:45 Monday evening in Main hall of the college. The subject, it is said, will prove as interesting to parents who have grown sons and daughters and it will be to those who are still responsible for the training of their children. According to one educator problems of 18-year-olds ten years ago are now the problems of those 15 years of age.

One of the problems to be discussed will be the extent to which commercialized amusements destroy home life.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has surely done all I could ask it to do and I am telling all my friends about it. I have a nice big baby girl and am feeling fine. You may use this letter to help other sick mothers."—Mrs. C. A. MOEDE, Box 634, Windom, Minn.

My First Child
Glen Allen, Ala.—"I have been greatly benefited by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for bearing-down feelings and pains. I was troubled in this way for nearly four years following the birth of my first child, and at times could hardly stand on my feet. A neighbor recommended the Vegetable Compound to me after I had taken doctor's medicines without much benefit. It has relieved my pains and gives me strength. I recommend it and give you permission to use my testimonial letter."—Mrs. IDA RYE, Glen Allen, Alabama.

PASTEURIZE MILK TO PROTECT STOCK

Greenville Creamery Will Install Skim Milk Purifier For Farmers

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Greenville—Installation of a pasteurizer for skim milk so as to prevent tubercular infection among cattle and hogs from this source was authorized at the annual meeting of patrons of the Greenville creamery owned by Potts-Wood and company of Appleton. The meeting was held at local hall on Jan. 25.

The pasteurizer formerly in use did not have a sufficient capacity to take care of the needs. The new one will enable all farmers to obtain skim milk that has been heated to 175 degrees to kill any possible germs. The patrons will pay 1 cent on each 100 pounds of milk for this service. Hogs or other livestock fed with this milk will be protected from tuberculous germs which might have been present in the milk.

Edward Hassinger, Sr., secretary, and Lucius Colla, treasurer, gave their annual reports. Both were re-elected to their respective offices.

James A. Wood, head of Potts-Wood and company, was present at the meeting. He related the creamery conditions of the past year and voiced his satisfaction that the coming year would be a satisfactory one. John Knapstein acted as chairman.

TO PLAY MINSTREL AT LITTLE CHUTE

Kimberly Dramatic Club Will Present "Smokeville Social"
Monday Night

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Kimberly—Little Chute is the next place where Kimberly Dramatic club will present its minstrel show, "The Smokeville Social." It will be staged Monday evening at Little Chute theater.

The play was given before a large house at the auditorium in Kaukauna Friday evening and was well received. The work of the actors was much more finished because of presenting the play for the fourth time. The specialty men and the boys' chorus drew hearty applause as well as an abundance of laughter. The new comic jokes were a relief from the usual attempt to get over the time-worn variety.

The club's orchestra of seven pieces under the direction of Prof. J. Gysbers, will play at the Little Chute performance. The music was arranged largely by Prof. Gysbers and some of it is of his own composition. This feature makes the play much more attractive.

Minstrel players will be Lester Rosera, John Gysbers, Charles Van Haelst, Philip Midday and Paul Lookemid, specialty men. Theodore Wredeven, Prof. Gysbers and John Mins.

Songs which are to be sung include: "Down in Indiana," "Old Black Joe," "Bagtime Violin," "Mysterious Rag," "Hum-tum-tiddle," "Swanee River Moon," "A Simple Melody," "I Don't Care."

The second game the high school girls won from the embryo teachers. The student teachers led by a score of 6 to 3 at the end of the first half but a fast comeback on the part of the high school girls turned the tide. EXTRA TEACHER AT ONEIDA REFUSED

Taxpayers Of District No. 4 Fail To Sustain Board—Refuse To Pay For Lights

Oneida—A special school meeting was called by the taxpayers Wednesday afternoon at District No. 4 school. Hot debates followed over the questions of having two teachers and also paying for the gas lamps the school board had installed without the taxpayers' consent.

It had been decided at the annual meeting in July that one teacher would be engaged unless there were 60 pupils enrolled for a month. There were only 55 enrolled and a second teacher had been engaged and has taught three months. Children from other districts have also attended school, which question was also voted against at the annual meeting. When the question was brought to a vote 24 voted for one teacher and 15 for two.

The gas lamp bill of $75 was also voted against. Where lights were not needed a half dozen times in a year the taxpayers did not feel able to spend so much in lamps. The other gas lamps had been stolen and the same might happen again it was

Memory Can't Act Alone When An Argument Occurs

The only reason that there hasn't been a steady stream of Post-Crescent readers into the office of this newspaper demanding copies of the Chicago Daily News Almanac and Year Book, which is sold for 98 cents and a coupon clipped from this paper, is that people don't know what this book contains. If they had any idea of the vast amount of timely information contained in the 558 pages of this remarkable work they would be racing to see which one would get here first.

It's a good thing for the human race, so called, that most of us are never satisfied with what we know. Except for a few rare people in whose brains all the knowledge of the ages is confined, folks usually have to have some source of information when they want to know something outside of their daily routine. For instance, suppose you wanted to know how many Democrats or Republicans there are in the house of representatives in Washington. Have you any place where you can turn quickly for that information? Then again when you are discussing the federal income tax, do you know where the law is given in its entirety so that you won't have to spend an hour looking for it? Maybe you would like to know the custom duties on wheat, or fountain pens or anything else. When you are discussing prohibition maybe you would like to know how many gallons of wine were consumed in 1921 as compared with 1914. Well, you can get all that information and a whole lot more in the almanac and year book which the Post-Crescent is offering. You'll have to see the book to appreciate what it contains. You will find a fund of information that will amaze you.

If this book were shelling for four or five dollars (and it is easily worth that much) it wouldn't be surprising if the demand didn't keep the presses running overtime. But the price is only 98 cents and a coupon and the coupon doesn't cost anything. If you get a copy of this book you wouldn't trade it for a good many times what it cost you. The supply isn't going to last very long, so you had better hurry in your order.

C. N. W. IN CONTEST TO CHOOSE EDITOR

If any employee of the Northern Wisconsin division or the Ashland division of the Northwestern Railway company has editorial aspirations he has a chance to use them. The new Northwestern magazine, in its first issue, announces a contest among its employees for the appointment of associate editor of the publication.

Outside of a knowledge of the proper use of words no technical experience is required. Bruce V. Crandall, editor of the magazine, states in announcing the contest, declaring that he does not want an experienced editor as much as an experienced railroader.

The competition is open only to Northwestern employees. Those desiring are to send their names, addresses and position with the company to the editor. Each contestant must

Stenographic Position To Prominent Position

Friends in Appleton have learned of the progress in the insurance field made by Charles H. Coates, who is now president of the National Insurance Company of America, one of the big insurance companies of the country with headquarters in New York.

Twenty-five years ago Mr. Coates, who was admitted to the bar a few years previous, did stenographic work in the office of Judge John Bottenheim, who at that time was district attorney. Two years later he became an adjuster for his present company and about 12 years ago was made manager of the western district with headquarters in Chicago. Recently he was made president and was transferred to the head office at 709 Sixth-ave, New York.

In a letter to E. A. Walthers, local representative of his company, he expressed a desire to be remembered to his friends. He said when he left here he was personally acquainted with practically all of the members of the Masonic lodge, was one of the charter members of the Elk lodge and also was worthy patron of the Eastern Star.

Those submitting the best material will be selected to write an article on "How to Make the Northwestern the Best Railway Magazine Published," and from this competition the associate editor will be chosen. All articles submitted that have merit, value or interest will be published.

CAPTAIN BLOOD

by Rafael Sabatini

© RAFAEL SABATINI
REPRINTED BY NEA SERVICE

"M. le filibustier," cried Rivalro in a thick voice, "it seems that I must remind you that I am your superior officer."

"My superior officer? You? Lord of the World? Why you are just a common pirate!"

He stalked out, and his three captains—although they thought him mad—rolled after him in loyal silence.

Inwardly M. de Rivalro burned with shame and rage. The mask had been plucked from him, and he had been held up to scorn—he, the General of the King's Armies by Sea and Land in America.

Nevertheless, it was to Cartagena that they sailed in the middle of March. Volunteers and negroes had brought up the forces directly under M. de Rivalro to twelve hundred men. With these he thought he could keep the buccaner contingent in order and submissive.

Narrowly they missed the Jamaica fleet with Colonel Dushop, which sailed north for Tortuga two days after the Baron de Rivalro's southward passage.

CHAPTER XXVII
Cartagena

Having crossed the Caribbean in the teeth of contrary winds, it was not until the early days of April that the French fleet was in sight of Cartagena, and M. de Rivalro summoned a council aboard his flagship to determine the method of assault.

"It is of importance, messieurs," he told them, "that we take the city by surprise, not only before it can put itself into a state of defense, but before it can remove its treasures in land. I suppose to land a force sufficient to achieve this to the north of the city tonight after dark."

It was sheer obstinacy and empty pride that drove him, and he received the lesson he deserved. The fleet stood in during the afternoon to within a mile of the coast, and under cover of darkness three hundred men were pulled away for the shore in the canoes, pinnaces, and other boats. Rivalro's pride, impelled him, however much he may have disliked the venture to lead them in person.

The first six boats were caught in the surf, and pounded into fragments before their occupants could extricate themselves. The thunder of the breakers and the cries of the shipwrecked warned those who followed, and thereby saved them from sharing the same fate.

The Baron went back to his flagship an infuriated, but by no means a wiser man.

He was awakened at dawn by the rolling thunder of guns. Emerging upon the poop in nightcap and slippers, he beheld a sight that increased his unreasonable and unreasoning fury. The four buccaner ships under canvas were going through extraordinary maneuvers half a mile off the Boca Chica and little more than half a mile away from the remainder of the fleet, and from their flanks flame and smoke were belching each time they swung broadside to the great round fort that guarded that narrow entrance. The fort was returning the fire vigorously and viciously. But the buccaniers timed their broadsides with extraordinary judgment to catch the defending ordnance reloading; then as they drew the Spaniard's fire, they swung away again, not only taking care to be ever moving targets, but further, to present no more than bow or stern to the fort, their masts in line when the heaviest cannonades were to be expected.

Gibbering and cursing M. de Rivalro stood there and watched this action, so presumptuously undertaken by Blood on his own responsibility. Meanwhile the fight went merrily on. The fort was suffering badly. Yet for all their maneuvering the buccaniers were not escaping punishment. The starboard gunwale of the Atropos had been hammered into splinters and a shot had caught her stern in the cauld. The Elizabeth was badly battered about the fore-castle, and the Arabella's mainmast had been shot away whilst toward the end of that engagement the Jaechesis came reeling out of the fight with a shattered rudder steering herself by sweeps.

It may have been a couple of hours later, when Captain Blood, as spruce and cool as if he had just come from a levee, stepped upon the quarter deck of the Victorieuse to confront M. de Rivalro, still in bed gown and nightcap.

"I have to report, M. le Baron, that we are in possession of the fort on Boca Chica. The standard of France is flying from what remains of its tower; and the way into the outer harbor is open to your fleet."

M. de Rivalro was compelled to swallow his fury.

"You are fortunate, M. Blood, that you succeeded," he said. "It would have been very ill with you had you failed."

Blood pointed out the fort at the mouth of the inner harbor, which was just barely visible above the waving palms on the intervening tongue of land. He announced that its armament was less formidable than that of the outer fort, which they had reduced, but on the other hand, the passage was very much narrower than the Boca Chica, and before they could attempt to make it in any case they must dispose of those defenses. He proposed that the French ships should enter the outer harbor and proceed at once to bombardment. Meanwhile, he would land three hundred buccaniers and some artillery on the eastern side of the lagoon, beyond the fragrant garden islands dense with richly bearing fruit trees and proceed simultaneously to storm the fort in the rear. Thus beset on both sides at once, and demoralized by the fate of the much stronger outer fort, he did not think the Spaniards would offer a very long resistance. Then it would be for M. de Rivalro to garrison the fort, whilst Captain Blood would sweep on with his men.

At noon on the morrow, shorn of defenses and threatened with bombardment, Cartagena sent offers of surrender to M. de Rivalro.

Swollen with pride by a victory for which he took the entire credit to himself, the Baron dictated his terms. He demanded that all public effects and office accounts be delivered up, that the merchants surrender all money and goods held by them for their correspondents; the inhabitants could choose whether they would remain in the city or depart, but those who went must first deliver up all their property and those who elected to remain must surrender half, and become the subjects of France, religious houses and churches should be spared but they must render accounts of all moneys and valuables in their possession.

Cartagena agreed, having no choice in the matter, and on the next day, which was the 5th day of April, M. de Rivalro entered the city and proclaimed it now a French colony, appointing M. de Cussy its governor.

CHAPTER XXVIII
The Honor of M. de Rivalro

During the capitulation and for some time after, Captain Blood and the greater portion of his buccaniers had been at their post utterly in ignorance of what was taking place. Blood, although the man chiefly responsible for the swift reduction of the city, was not even shown the consideration of being called to the council of officers.

This was a slight that at another time Captain Blood would not have borne for a moment. But at present, in his odd frame of mind and its divorce from piracy, he was content to smile his utter contempt of the French general. Not so, however, his captains, and still less his men. It was only by undertaking to voice their grievance to the Baron that their captain was able for the moment to parry them.

The Baron sat scrutinizing ledgers, like a city merchant, and checking figures, to make sure that all was correct to the last peso. He looked up irritated by the interruption which Captain Blood's advent occasioned.

"M. le Baron," the latter greeted him, "I must speak frankly, and you must suffer it. My men are on the point of mutiny."

The end of it all was that, M. de Rivalro gave a promise at once to make the necessary preparations, and Captain Blood and his officers would wait upon him to board the Victorieuse tomorrow morning, the treasure should be weighed in their presence and their fifth share surrendered there and then into their own keeping.

Among the buccaniers that night there was hilarity over the sudden abatement of M. de Rivalro's monstrous pride. But when he next dawn broke over Cartagena, they had the explanation of it. The abscending M. de Rivalro had gone off with the treasure taking with him the troops and marines he had brought from France. He had left behind him at Cartagena not only the empty-handed buccaniers, whom he had swindled but also M. de Cussy.

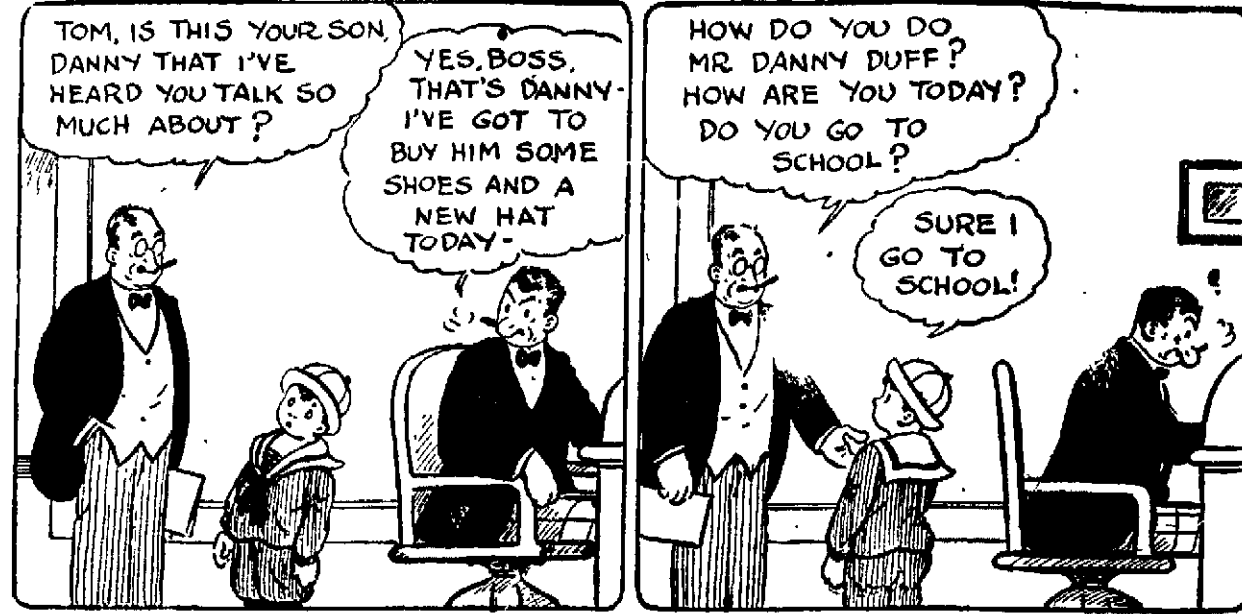

Captain Blood alone kept his head setting a curb upon his deep chagrin. He had promised himself that before parting from M. de Rivalro he would present a reckoning for all the petty affronts and insults to which that unspeakable fellow—now proved a scoundrel—had subjected him.

"We must follow," he declared. "Follow and punish."

GOOD MANAGEMENT MAKING APPLETON WATER PLANT PAY

Former Rail Commission Member Commends City's Way Of Operating Utility

Appleton waterworks department is one of the most efficiently operated and managed utilities in the state from the executive viewpoint, according to C. A. Seifert of Madison, who is completing the annual audit of the department.

Mr. Seifert, when acting as chief examiner for the Wisconsin railroad rate commission from 1912 to 1918, helped organize the Appleton municipally owned utility and introduced a system of accounting for the office here. He has been auditing these books regularly since 1918, and serves a considerable number of public utilities in the state in a similar manner.

"The efficiency of the Appleton department is unusual," he said in an interview. "In view of the tendency of most public utilities to operate their own plants with false economy, municipally owned plants are more or less efficient. Their first objective is economy at all costs, and the result is that the actual operation becomes expensive."

PLANT EXCEPTIONAL
"But here in Appleton you have an exceptional plant and office. The records are all standard, the information is standard and the procedure is standard. The personnel, too, is always willing to accept advice. Any body can get reliable information at once, which is not always the case elsewhere. The information is backed up by accurate records."

"The first interest of the Appleton management is to give the people of Appleton the best service for the money they pay and not to run the plant with economy at the expense of efficiency."

"From the viewpoint of efficiency the operation of the Appleton plant therefore becomes the most economical. It means that the city of Appleton gets 100 per cent value for every dollar it has invested in the utility."

"It is true that the first few years did not show a profit, which was due to the fact that the rates were not coordinated with the operating conditions. Since the rates have been readjusted, the city is in a position to get a reasonable return on its investment, and will receive from 4 1/2 to 5 per cent from now on."

WATER IS PURE
"It is possible that the Appleton consumers do not appreciate fully the method of public service here. The operative cost has been a little more than in other places. This is because the city first of all gets chemically pure filtered water, whereas other cities must be content to depend to some extent upon impure well water."

"In spite of the handicap of this expense, the city of Appleton gives its consumers service not at an excessive rate, but at a rate lower than that in some other cities."

"The office management watches every operation in order that the costs may be reduced to a maximum that is consistent with true efficiency. The materials are bought at the lowest prices obtainable. The principles are applied as strictly in this department as in any reputable private manufacturing plant."

Should City Wait And Build Gymnasiums At New Schools Later?

Opinion Differs On Procedure In School Problem—Post-Crescent Wants People To Write Their Ideas On This Matter

There seems to be a difference of opinion in Appleton whether schools or bridges rank first in importance as the city's problems, but there is no disagreement over the proposition that schools are a very essential factor in the city's development. We are going to have two new schools, that is certain. Whether they will be built to include gymnasiums is a question.

The board of education has $425,000 available for building two junior highs. That is not sufficient to equip the buildings with auditoriums and gymnasiums or even to give each school a combination gymnasium and auditorium.

Physical education is considered as essential a part of a school curriculum as algebra or English. Educators have proved that gymnasiums mean better developed bodies and that in well developed bodies the mind functions more readily.

Do the people of Appleton want the board of education to proceed with the erection of two junior high schools without gymnasium facilities or do they want the council to provide more money so these essentials can be included at once? Would they consider it economy to build the schools without the gymnasiums with the expectation of adding them later?

The Post-Crescent is glad to print letters on this subject. It is an important subject, worthy of careful consideration.

PRICE OF COFFEE IS RAISED SEVERAL CENTS

The wholesale price of the higher grades of coffee has advanced three cents since the first of the year and the average price is now seven cents higher than it was a year ago, according to E. J. Morrow of Appleton Tea & Coffee company.

Seventy per cent of the coffee consumed in the world is raised in Brazil and Mr. Morrow said there is a possibility of the price going higher before the new crop is on the market which will be about April 1. The crop is harvested in February.

NEW P. O. STAMPS APPEARING NOW

Designs Of 1922, Issue, Soon To Be Sold, Show Scenes Rather Than Faces

Letters and parcels bearing the new 1922 series of United States postage stamps are gradually finding their way through the local postoffice. The letters are being dispatched from postoffices that already have exhausted their supply of stamps of the old 1912 series.

Thus far the Appleton postoffice has exhausted only its stock of 25 cent stamps of the 1912 series. The new 25-cent stamp now being sold at this office is the same as the other in color, but differs in design. It shows a picture of the Niagara Falls; the tendency of the new series is to reproduce scenes of places rather than portraits of statesmen exclusively.

The new special delivery stamps, of which a supply is on hand but will not be sold until the old supply is exhausted, are printed with an evident intention of keeping up with the improved methods of locomotion, as the old bicycle boy picture has been replaced with the motorcycle deliverer. A woman in an open doorway is receiving the letter from the carrier.

Why the Jewett Is a Good Investment

Some folks think only of looks when they buy a car. Thousands have bought this Jewett on looks alone. But there are things to know about the Jewett which will make you prefer it to all others. Ever notice how comfortably the Jewett rides? You are surprised at such easy action in this size car. It comes from extra long springs and the extra weight of rugged construction.

If you are wise you can't be fooled on rugged construction. You can feel it—or the lack of it—by the way a car rides. The trembling, bouncy car is flimsy. The steady, comfortable car is substantial. Do we need to tell you which car is a good investment? You can feel the Jewett's long life in the way it rides. Will its power endure—remain smooth and quiet? A very important question. A short-lived motor makes any car a poor investment. How can you tell whether a motor will keep its power and smoothness? You don't need to be an engineer. With your ear and just one simple fact you can tell the answer.

Speed up the motor. Listen! Is it quiet? A noisy motor is poorly designed for long wear. And the one fact you need to make sure of is a high-pressure oiling system.

Jewett's high-pressure oiling system sends three gallons of oil per minute through all main and connecting rod bearings at 20 to 40 pounds pressure. It constantly bathes the entire mechanism in oil. Friction is reduced to nil. No chance for such a motor to wear out for years. Yes, you can prove the Jewett is a good investment.

Unusual Winter Comfort

Buick reputation for anticipating your ideas of comfort for all weathers, performance and utility, with models of advanced design is strikingly upheld in Buick open models.

Examination shows how the thoughtful application of simple, practical methods of sealing curtain and windshield joints against wind, cold and rain has resulted in a welcome degree of winter and early spring comfort you never thought possible for an open car.

Coldest weather cannot impair the efficiency of the Buick oil pump. This pump is so designed that should the pump gears be held immovable through freezing, the shaft revolves within the gear. The heat thus generated thaws out the frozen parts, restoring gear action and oil flow to normal.

In spite of the snow Thursday night, Jones park rink will be in good condition for the ice races for the championship of Appleton beginning at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The ice was scraped clean of snow on Friday and immediately flooded and the rink will be closed to skaters until the races start.

Fifty-eight skaters are eligible to compete in the twelve events which make up the program. Every ward in the city is represented by speedy ice stars and great time is expected on the extended course.

The track will be several yards longer than for the preliminary races a week ago and if weather conditions are at all favorable the ice will be in much better condition.

Every possible precaution will be taken to give the skaters every opportunity for attaining maximum speed.

TAKE TIME ON RACES
Time will be taken on all the races so that next year's skaters will have something to shoot at. Three judges a timer will officiate at the finish mark. Four officials will be stationed at each of the corner posts to see that the contestants skate the required distance and to watch for violations of the rules. H. D. McChesney will officiate as starter and referee and his decisions shall be final.

Police officers will assist in keeping the ice free from skaters not in the races. The rink position will be closed to all skaters until the races begin and no one will be allowed on the ice Sunday morning.

Colors will designate the two teams in the mile relay race. Each member of the First Ward team will wear a red sash and each member of the Third Ward team will wear a white sash. Each team may determine the order in which their men will skate. A baton will be passed along by the skaters. Each contestant in the relay will skate 440 yards.

MARK RACE COURSE
The race course will be carefully marked so that the skaters travel the required distances and no further. The timing will be accurate so that the record of this year's events will be something to "shoot at" next year when it is hoped that a larger rink can be provided and a large number of skaters entered.

Skaters should report to the referee not later than 1:45 with their numbers securely pinned in place. They will be permitted to use the caretaker's house to keep themselves warm. No person except those wearing numbers will be permitted in the caretaker's house until after the contestants have had plenty of time to remove their skates after the races.

Prizes will be distributed to winners immediately after the program is completed. Winners will report to the officials when the last event is finished and the presentation will be made.

Spectators will not be permitted to congregate on the Lawrence-st bridge during the races because of the danger that the structure might collapse. They are urged to find places along the edge of the rink.

BIGGER THING NEXT YEAR
The races this year have been an experiment for the Post-Crescent. Many things have been learned and the promoters of the event hope to profit next year from their mistakes.

Well, these are laughs and sometimes the most fun out of it. The Milwaukee skaters now are using quite a little ink telling about a scrap next Tuesday night between the ancient Stanislaus Zysko and that battle-scarred old veteran, Paul Martinson, who is so harried that he groans every time he bends a leg.

Two old birds are meeting for the seventh time in Milwaukee. And what's more they'll draw a house. Now, what I'd like to know is, where do these Milwaukee folks get the idea that the only hicks in Wisconsin live in Appleton?

Hello Bill.

Some youthful critics whose conceit is far greater than their knowledge are making a fuss about the basketball game which Lawrence lost to Beloit a week ago. They are not saying so outright because they haven't the nerve but they are hinting that the reason for the defeat is Coach McChesney. If these same youthful critics would get in and help develop a school spirit which will enable McChesney to keep good athletes in school and up in their standings, instead of going around swindling a sneaky hammer, maybe Lawrence could turn out a championship basketball team. More good basketball material is what is needed, not a lot of cheap advice.

Our old friend Jap Barbeau has popped up again. The old big league star is being groomed to manage the Fond du Lac club. At least that is the yarn sent out from Cardinal-town. Jap's last appearance in this neck of the woods was in 1921 when he managed the Two Rivers club of Judge Heiding's old Lake Shore league. He is a pretty wise old baseball hand and can still stifle the pill with regularity.

There is joy in the Philadelphia Athletics baseball camp. The Macklers' star battery, Rommel and Perkins have come to terms with the management and they will leave with the first flock of candidates for southern training. This may be the Athletics' year. Mack & Co. have been prowling around in the scrap heap ever since the old machine was broken up, but there is the "makings" of a real team in Father Penn's town this season and may be the worm will turn.

BOY SCOUTS CLAIM THEY ARE CHAMPIONS OF CITY
A claim for the basketball ETAE boy scout teams in the city in the 135 pound class was entered this week as the result of the victory Wednesday by the basketball team of Troop Nine over the Seconds of Troop Two. The game which was played in the high school gymnasium was won by Troop Nine by a score of 23 to 12. This was the second win out of three played by these teams.

The championship teams is composed of Ed Karsky, Sonny Karsky, man, forwards; Eddie Bachall, center; Joe Gabriel and Julius Shapiro, guards. Other players who took part as subs in the Wednesday night championship affair were Harry Kaminsky, Leo Solinger, Abe Goldien and Julius Bender.

The losers were Amos Dundon and Arnold Eggert, forwards; Ronald Hyde, center; William Shannon and Roland Haese, guards.

Appleton high school basketballers handed Fond du Lac, 1922 basketball champions, a surprise of their lives when the Blue and Orange romped off with the game by a 22 to 12 score. Incidentally, Appleton went into third place in the Fox River Valley conference race while the Fondy team which was in the lead until a week ago was shoved down to fourth place.

Coach A. C. Denney's men displayed a brand of basketball that not only thwarted the plans of the Fondy school but took the fans that jammed the Fond du Lac armory off their feet. Advance "dope" had Coach Fruth's men victors by a big margin.

COVER UP MCKINLEY
The highly touted forward McKinley of the Fondy quint and last year's all-star forward was helpless, being well covered up by the Appletonians. McKinley was able to sink only two baskets. He made six free throws. The only other basket made by Fond du Lac was a shot by Wagner.

All of the Fond du Lac baskets were made from the middle of the floor with the Appleton defensive and offensive tactics hardly permitting the Fruthmen to get near the goal.

The game was a "scrap" from the very moment Referee Pav's whistle started activities. The first half was most closely contested and ended 10 to 7 in favor of the Appleton team.

The Blue and Orange played a well balanced game and caging honors were well divided. Bases led in the number of points, making 10. Mills got the most field goals.

The Fondyans played a feeding game in the direction of McKinley whose caging eye is regarded as nearly perfect. Appleton, using a four-man offensive seldom permitted the ball to go far enough to reach the star forward. With their own plans broken up the Fond du Lac cagers were unable to stop the short passing game of the Appletonians.

Coach Denney's men also showed a better caging eye.

Hope For High Marks As Eleventh Elks Ten Pin Tournament Opens

Appleton And Green Bay Teams Scheduled To Roll First Games—City Fathers Shoot First Balls

SATURDAY'S PROGRAM
2 P. M.—Appleton Teams—City Fathers, Conway Specials, Auto Body Works, Lawyers.
7:30 P. M.—Green Bay Teams.

SUNDAY'S PROGRAM
Afternoon and Evening—Green Bay Teams.

The eleventh annual tournament of the Wisconsin Elks Bowling association was ushered in at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Appleton Elks clubhouse, with all the ceremonial custom decrees. The tourney promises to be not only the largest in history of the organization from the standpoint of entries but also a record smashing event.

Alleys, some but a year old, re-varnished this week and polished to the smoothness of a mirror, offered the sport devotees the best floors possible. The fast alleys, it was predicted, will aid the local and visiting bowlers to spill the wood for high marks.

Members of the City Fathers team including Mayor Henry Reuter of Appleton in the lineup, officially opened the classic by rolling down the balls simultaneously on different alleys. This was preceded by talks by members of the various committees and officials responsible for the arrangements and the bringing of the tournament here for the second year in succession.

Secretary James H. Ballet of the tournament committee announced that 250 teams have entered the five-man events. There will be approximately $5,000 in prizes.

The tournament will end March 11.

YE FISHING AND HUNTING COLUMN
By M. J. V. Fosse

PLAN MANY CHANCES
Filling boats, taking thousands of undersized white bass without a limit may end in the near future if the measures now being recommended to the state legislature are enacted into laws.

The Isaac Walton league is proposing some remedial effects on fishing. Some of these are:

A closed season with a bag limit of 20 white bass in any one day.

A closed season for muskies for three years duration.

A license of $1.00 for resident fishermen, the funds of which are to be devoted to propagation and conservation.

Opening of the brook trout season on April 15 instead of May 1.

Limiting artificial baits to one gang of not more than three hooks.

A bag limit of one muskellunge per day irrespective of size.

WANT BAG LIMIT
Bag limits on all game fish, irrespective of size—small fish to count as part of the day's bag instead of being returned to the water in injured condition, where they often die.

Uniform date for opening of fishing season on all classes of game fish.

Dividing the state into three latitudinal zones or districts, providing for an early date for opening of season in southern part, a later date in central part and a still later date in northern waters.

Increase of non-resident fishing license to either $5.00 or $10.00.

A complete revision of fish and game laws and rewriting in such a manner as to cut out innumerable exceptions, so one can intelligently understand them.

Prohibition of fishing or trolling from a motor driven boat or gang of boats in tow while motor is in operation.

More stringent laws prohibiting and penalizing lake and stream pollution and larger appropriations to finance this work.

Prohibiting all ice fishing after Jan. 15.

Closed season for all game fish except brook trout from Jan. 15 to May 25.

One shipment of game fish out of the state to be allowed non-resident fishermen instead of one shipment every seven days now allowed.

DINNER SPECIALS WIN BASKETBALL CONTEST
The Dinner Specials defeated the First Ward Marigold quintet in the high school gymnasium Friday night by a score of 26 to 22. Both teams are composed of high school students and are looking for more games.

KONZ BOX AND LUMBER QUINTET COPS GAMES
In a basketball contest in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium the Konz Box and Lumber Co. defeated the Black Creek Stars by a score of 24 to 10. In another battle in Bushey's gym, the Konz Box and Lumber Co. whipped Troop One of St. Joseph school. The score was 35 to 4.

ONEIDAS, NAVAJOES AND FLAMBEAUS ARE FLAG WINNERS

Elks Triple League Ends "Hostilities" With Stars Of Tournament

The Oneidas, Navajos and Flambeaus are champions of the Appleton Elks triple league, the largest bowling unit in the city which closed its schedule Saturday with the opening of the state tournament at the Elks clubhouse.

Ninety bowlers played in at least 30 games. The triple league was divided into three units, each bowling on different nights and bowled the night on which they bowled.

Homer Dawson, chairman of the bowling was in charge of the affairs. The Friday Night league was far ahead of its brother bowling units from the standpoint of expert pin toppling. The Oneidas won the race in this wheel.

In the Thursday Night bowling battles the Navajos copped the flag by a single game with the Quinners on its heels. The first three teams in this wheel had a habit of changing places almost every other week.

The Monday Night league finished up with a tie for first place, the Flambeaus and Menominees each having copped 22 games.

To the Elks triple league goes the honor of establishing the highest official single game bowled this year in Appleton. This mark was 284 made on Jan. 11 by "Jack" Otto of the Mascoutens in the Thursday Night league. Despite the work of Otto, the Mascoutens finished in the cellar.

The Elks plan to resume "hostilities" after March 11 when the state tournament ends.

ROTARY CONCLAVE TO ATTRACT 2,000

Appleton Will Send Delegation To Milwaukee Gathering In March

It is expected that from 1,500 to 2,000 persons will go to Milwaukee during the conference of the tenth district Rotary clubs in that city on Thursday and Friday, March 15 and 16. Nine clubs from the upper peninsula of Michigan and twenty-seven from Wisconsin will be represented by delegates. Appleton Rotary club will send a strong delegation which will make the trip by train.

All the railroads leading to Milwaukee will give fare and one-half round trip privileges to Rotarians attending the conference. There will be a banquet, reception and ball on the evening of March 15. The wives of the delegates will be entertained at a theatre party during the afternoon. Boy scouts will act as guides to visiting delegates.

The program committee, under direction of Herbert N. Laffin, president of Milwaukee Rotary club, who delivered an address before the local Rotary club to start a recent meeting, is negotiating with several noted men as speakers at the conference.

STUDENTS TRYING OUT FOR COLLEGE COMEDY

Tryouts for J. M. Barrie's comedy, "Alce, Sit by the Fire," which will be given as the annual college play took place on Saturday afternoon. Many of the students who have taken part in former college plays and several new students interpreted scenes of the play in order that they might demonstrate their fitness for the parts.

Those who are selected for the cast will include the characters and several extras who will work on stage setting and production details. Students working on the play register for a special class in play production, where most of the work is accomplished. The students receive regular college credit for this activity.

FIRST PEACE ANGEL APPEARS IN EUROPE

policy of the administration is not positive enough to inspire respect. Secretary Hughes is at the moment fencing with the senate and he has the advantage of documents as well as an intimate knowledge of just what the diplomatic situation is in Europe. His letter to Senator Lodge telling exactly what Roland Borden has done as unofficial observer on the reparations commission, clears up many doubts and shows that Mr. Boyden was not meddling but simply trying to keep the sharp distinction between official representative and unofficial observer and that he has not yet committed the American government to any opinions on the merits of the reparations controversy.

WHAT HUGHES WANTS
Mr. Hughes would like to see the pending resolution worded so that the president of the United States would have the discretionary power at any time to send an American representative to attend officially or refrain from attending the meetings of the reparations commission. Whether the "irreconcilables" would permit this is another question. The administration doesn't feel that the need of an official representative on the commission is at this time acute so is not pressing for required authority. Mr. Hughes still believes that the way out of the whole thing is not by any new action of the reparations commission but by the acceptance of his original suggestion that a commission of bankers and experts from each of the big powers get together to discuss and recommend a solution.

SUNDAY LAST DAY OF POULTRY SHOW

Thousands Have Visited Armory — Wells Has Completed Judging Of Birds

The poultry show at the armory which has been visited by several thousand people this week will be open Sunday afternoon from 1 to 6 o'clock. Sunday is the closing day and those who have not yet inspected the poultry may do so Saturday evening or Sunday afternoon. Late arrivals of poultry were a pair of Buff Cochins bantams placed on exhibition Saturday by L. F. Busby.

George Wells completed the work of judging the exhibits Friday afternoon. He said the show was one of the best in the state and did not know of any that surpassed it. Officers of Fox River Poultry & Pet Stock association claim that in number of entries and quality of birds the show outshines any in the history of the association.

The attendance Friday evening was the largest during the week and another large crowd is expected Saturday evening. Saturday afternoon visitors were entertained with motion pictures.

Officers of Appleton Cemetery Association, at a meeting at the office of Joseph Koffend, Jr., secretary, Friday afternoon decided to purchase four and one-half acres adjoining the cemetery on the north from C. A. Schaeffer. This land ultimately will be platted.

Preliminary steps were taken also for the building of a service station for the public and a garage joining the present building and corresponding with it in style of architecture. Another meeting will be held Feb. 9 at which plans will be submitted. The officers decided upon a general cleaning up of the cemetery and the removal of the wooden structures.

Silver, essential in photography, is estimated to be used to the extent of 15,000,000 ounces yearly in the moving picture industry. Four hours' hard thinking exhausts the tissues as much as ten hours of manual labor.

Remarkable Showing in Ice Cream Sales

The results from a recent announcement that we were putting an ice cream on the market which greatly increase butter fat have been more than gratifying.

Sales have increased over 55% (An unheard of showing for January) and practically every dealer was completely sold out of our last week's Special.

This week-end our Special Brick is named "LOG CABIN SUNDAY." A rich vanilla brick flavored with pure maple syrup with pecans.

Many people prefer bulk ice cream and we assure you this is made from the same rich materials.
